Industrial Advisory Committee

The meeting for tomorrow February 26, 2010 has been canceled. Inclement weather was a major contributor to this decision. Getting the committees together on a snowy February day is a difficult task.

We will try to move the process forward without a physical meeting. Next week, you will receive a rough draft of our Self Study via email for ATMAE (The Association of Technology, Management, and Applied Engineering). Please take some time to review it, make comments and return to us by March 10, 2010 Wednesday. This Self Study will be sent to the accreditation team for their review prior to their on-campus visit. Your input is of great importance to us and the accreditation process.

Also, please review the minutes from last semester's meeting. Make any revisions, corrections and additions that you feel necessary. Return the minutes along with the Self Study.

We value your time, effort and feedback in this process. We regret that our breakfast meeting had to be canceled. We do want you to circle April 12 on your calendar. You may be asked to attend a luncheon on that day to discuss the actions of the Industrial Advisory Committee with the accreditation team.

Again, thank you for your time and effort. Stay in touch and be safe.
